II COURSE OVERVIEW

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This is a seminar series in inorganic chemistry.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:

To give the students experience of giving a public lecture on chemistry and to expose the students to advances in other research groups.

PREREQUISITE COURSE:

The prerequisite for this course is admission to graduate school.

Supplemental:

III HOW THE COURSE IS ORGANIZED

---

The zoom lecture will be announced on Quercus.

The lectures are on Thursday 2-3 PM.

Ph.D. students in years 2 and 4 give lectures on their own research work, while those in year 3 present an original proposal for a new area of study. In the latter case, the work proposed should be well away from both their own work and other work on-going in the department. M.Sc. students give lectures on their own research work at the end of their studies.

IV EVALUATION/GRADING SCHEME

Students are graded by attending faculty on following criteria for their own lecture:

- introduction and context of research
- student's understanding of material
- description of methods and results
- ability to handle discussion

In addition, student are expected to attend all lectures.

VI TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS

Specific guidance from the U of T Vice-Provost, Students regarding student technology requirements is available here:

Advice for students more broadly regarding online learning is available here:

This course requires the use of computers, and of course sometimes things can go wrong when using them. You are responsible for ensuring that you maintain regular backup copies of your files, use antivirus software (if using your own computer), and schedule enough time when completing an assignment to allow for delays due to technical difficulties. Computer-viruses, crashed hard drives, broken printers, lost or corrupted files, incompatible file formats, and similar mishaps are common issues when using technology, and are not acceptable grounds for a deadline extension.

VII INSTITUTIONAL POLICIES AND SUPPORT

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

On Academic Integrity:

Academic integrity is essential to the pursuit of learning and scholarship in a university, and to ensuring that a degree from the University of Toronto is a strong signal of each student's individual academic achievement. As a result, the University treats cases of cheating and plagiarism very seriously. The University of Toronto's Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters

(<https://governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/secretariat/policies/code-behaviour-academic-matters-july-1-2019>) outlines the behaviours that constitute academic dishonesty and the processes for addressing academic offences. Potential offences include, but are not limited to:

In papers and assignments:

1. Using someone else's ideas or words without appropriate acknowledgement.
2. Submitting your own work in more than one course without the permission of the instructor.
3. Making up sources or facts.
4. Obtaining or providing unauthorized assistance on any assignment.

On tests and exams:

1. Using or possessing unauthorized aids.
2. Looking at someone else's answers during an exam or test.
3. Misrepresenting your identity.

In academic work:

1. Falsifying institutional documents or grades.
2. Falsifying or altering any documentation required by the University.

All suspected cases of academic dishonesty will be investigated following procedures outlined in the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters. If you have questions or concerns about what constitutes appropriate academic behaviour or appropriate research and citation methods, you are expected to seek out additional information on academic integrity from your instructor or from other institutional resources (see <https://www.academicintegrity.utoronto.ca/>).

Use of Turnitin

Note for instructor: Turnitin (<https://teaching.utoronto.ca/ed-tech/teaching-technology/turnitin/>) is a very highly recommended tool directly integrated into Quercus that will assist in detecting textual similarities between compared works. Students must be informed at the start of the course that the instructor will be using Turnitin. If you plan to use this tool, the course syllabus must include the following statement (as is):

"Normally, students will be required to submit their course essays to Turnitin.com for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University's use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the Turnitin.com web site".

COPYRIGHT

Course videos and materials belong to your instructor, the University, and/or other source depending on the specific facts of each situation and are protected by copyright. In this course, you are permitted to download session videos and materials for your own academic use, but you should not copy, share, or use them for any other purpose without the explicit permission of the instructor.

ACCESSIBILITY NEEDS

Students with diverse learning styles and needs are welcome in this course. The University of Toronto is committed to accessibility: if you require accommodations for a disability, or have any other accessibility concerns about the course, please contact Accessibility Services as soon as possible.
